COUNCIL ACTS TO AID DIXON CELEBRATION

Will Assist In Observance of Hundredth Birthday

The adoption of a resolution by the unanimous vote of the members of the city council last evening, marked the first step toward the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of the city of Dixon, which is intended to mark the dedication of the new Peoria avenue bridge, one of the greatest achievements in the history of the city; the formal opening of Dixon's fine new airport on the Lincoln Highway east of the city and the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial on West Water street, which it is believed will be completed by late summer. The resolution as presented to the council which was unanimously adopted was as follows:

"Whereas, the first permanent settlement of Dixon was established by the arrival of John Dixon and his family in 1830 and, whereas, it is suitable and proper that the citizens of this community should celebrate the centennial of Dixon, and, whereas, the completion of the Peoria avenue bridge, the Lincoln Memorial and the Dixon Municipal Airport are projects of importance to our city the dedication of which can properly be included in a centennial celebration.

"Therefore, be it resolved, that the Mayor and City Council be authorized and directed to appoint a committee to have charge of planning and carrying into effect, suitable centennial observances with power to appoint all necessary sub-committees."

Progress Recalled
A delegation of Dixon business and professional men who are interested in the proposed centennial celebration was in attendance at the council meeting. Attorney George C. Dixon was spokesman for the committee and presented the subject explaining their purpose.

"The progress of our city has been too slow," the speaker said in opening, "but this may mean that the first hundred years are the hardest and we can only hope for greater and more rapid growth, development and prosperity in the second century of the city's existence. It is interesting to note the growth and development of Dixon. For this purpose I have secured the following figures showing the population of Dixon for the past 100 years. In 1830 there was but one white family in Dixon. The population increased as follows: 1840—725, 1850—1,073, 1860—2,218, 1870—4,055, 1880—4,241, 1890—5,800, 1900—7,900, 1910—7,216, 1920—8,191.

Hopeful For Future.
"It is my hope that the second century of the life of Dixon will see development such as we have never experienced and a larger and more prosperous city. The new Peoria avenue Lee County Memorial bridge is without question the greatest local improvement in a life time and is the greatest step in advancement taken by the council of the city in years. We have also the new Dixon Municipal airport east of the city which is to be thrown open to air traffic this coming season. The state of Illinois has been induced to erect a memorial in this city to mark one of the greatest spots in American history.

"In 1832 Abraham Lincoln became a soldier in the United States Army during an Indian uprising and it was at Dixon and on the site of the proposed memorial that he enlisted in the service. He served three enlistments in the Army, the first of which he served as captain. At the expiration of his first enlistment, he reenlisted as a private and at the conclusion of that enlistment, again reenlisted as a private. His company was stationed here at Dixon and the historic records show that Lincoln spent 18 days in Dixon in 1830.

Site Unquestioned.
"For some time there has been an ambition to mark the site where the fort stood and as the result of careful investigation, there is no question as to the site, which has been purchased by the state of Illinois. Governor Emmerson has appointed a commission of very able men to provide a suitable memorial on this location. Lorado Taft, the eminent sculptor, is one of the members of this commission. If the present plans of this commission materialize, and I have no reason to doubt but that they should, one of the greatest statues of Abraham Lincoln in the world will be erected on this state-owned site on the north banks of Rock river here. It will recall the

R. S. CHARTERS, ASHTON BANKER DIED LAST EVE

Was Well Known In All Sections of County; Funeral Friday

Residents of Ashton, Dixon and throughout Lee County were shocked this morning with receipt of the news of the death of Ralph Samuel Charters, president of the Ashton Bank, who passed away last evening a few minutes after 5 o'clock at the Lincoln hospital in Rochelle. He was stricken one week ago Friday at the banking institution, where he had served ever since his graduation from the Ashton high school. It was realized from the outset that his condition was very critical and he was taken to the Lincoln hospital at Rochelle where the following day he submitted to a serious operation. Since that time, hope for his recovery was despaired of and death ended his suffering last evening.

Ralph Samuel Charters was born in Ashton, May 26, 1886 and at the time of his passing was aged, 43 years, seven months and 25 days. He spent his entire life in Ashton and graduated from the Ashton high school in the class of 1903. A few months later he entered the employ of the late N. A. Petrie in the Ashton Bank as bookkeeper, where he had continued up to the time of his death. His ability in the banking profession led to his being appointed cashier of the institution and he served in this capacity for a score of years. At the death of the late Nathan A. Petrie, Mr. Charters was elected president of the institution, which position he had very successfully filled up to the time of his fatal illness.

In Civic Affairs.

He was active in the growth and development of the city of his birth. He served as 25 years as secretary of the Ashton Cemetery Association and it was largely through his activity and interest that the cemetery was improved and has become one of the most beautiful in northern Illinois. He served in the capacity of treasurer of the city organization as well as of Ashton township.

Mr. Charters was very active in Masonic circles. He was Past Master of Ashton lodge No. 531, A. F. & A. M.; was a member of Dixon Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar; Tebbala Temple, A. A. O. N. M. S. of Rockford and of the Freeport Consistory. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Charters, one sister, Miss Mary E. Charters and two brothers, John and Paul, all of Ashton, and George R. Charters, Jr., of Spirit Lake, Idaho.

Funeral services will be conducted from the family home Friday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. A. E. Thomas, pastor of the Ashton Presbyterian church of which the deceased was an active member, officiating and interment will be in the Ashton cemetery.

Body Of Kidnaper-Robber Identified

Carbondale Ill., Jan. 22.—(AP)—The body of a robber who was shot and fatally wounded by C. C. Wheelis, filling station proprietor, in an attempted holdup Monday at Zeigler, was identified as one of the trio who kidnapped L. A. Sizemore, Carbondale policeman, two weeks ago.

The slain bandit, identified by the Chief of Police of Johnson City as that of Bennie Williams, 29, a Johnson City ex-convict, also was identified in a morgue at Zeigler by Sizemore.

Williams had been suspected of having been one of the kidnappers, following receipt of an unsigned letter by Sheriff James Pritchard of Franklin county, who was told that Williams was in possession of the Carbondale officer's revolver, taken when the officer was kidnapped and liberated fifteen miles from here.

Officers here believe Williams and several companions were responsible for a number of holdups at Duquoin and other southern Illinois towns.

FORFEITURE BY ROCHELLE MAKES D. H. CHAMPIONS

Details Of Investigation Of Eligibility Of Young Draper

By Robert Lesage.
Because of a technicality in the eligibility rules which has been investigated by high schools holding membership in the Northern Illinois Conference and carried through by Superintendent I. B. Potter of this city, the Rochelle high school has been forced to forfeit its claim to the 1929 football championship of the conference. As the result of this action the Dixon high school squad becomes the undisputed champions of the conference.

Dixon's record for last season resulted in three games won, one game tied and no defeats. DeKalb was the nearest competitor with three victories, but one loss was chalked against the Barb City eleven. This leaves Dixon with a clear slate of 1,000 percentage for the season. DeKalb's average being, 750.

One of the rules of the Northern Illinois Conference provides that a student participating in athletics must pass in at least three subjects the semester preceding his playing. Gerald Draper, half back on the Rochelle football squad and center on the basketball team, has been the cause for the misunderstanding which gives Dixon the championship football team. It is contended that Draper moved to Rochelle from another Illinois town where he had attended high school, where he had not made a satisfactory average for the semester preceding his playing, at Rochelle.

Superintendent Guehl of the Rochelle high school is reported to have interpreted the rule to mean that it was the whole years average that counted and that by adding the grades of the two semesters acquired an average was reached which entitled Draper to participate in athletics. Other schools in the conference objected and Superintendent Potter addressed a communication to the Rochelle principal, requesting that he investigate the rules governing high school athletic competition. When no reply was forthcoming from Rochelle, a communication was addressed to C. W. Whitten, manager of the Illinois High School Athletic Association for a true interpretation of the rule.

The reply from Manager Whitten substantiated the claim of the Dixon high school officials and Superintendent Guehl of Rochelle immediately conformed by forfeiting all of Rochelle's claims to the conference championship. No protest was taken by the Dixon high school faculty members, who sought only the explanation of one of the conference rules with the above result.

Draper is also ineligible to play basketball for this semester but if his studies reach a suitable mark the present half of his school year, he will be eligible to participate again next semester. The result of this investigation gives Dixon the championship of the Northern Illinois conference which was launched a year ago and speaks highly for Coach Lindell who took charge of the football squad last fall and made a very creditable showing.

Official Statement.

Dixon high school officials issued the following statement of the case today: "By virtue of the fact that Rochelle's star halfback, Gerald Draper, having been declared ineligible for interscholastic athletic competition, Rochelle has forfeited all football and basketball games in which Draper participated. This gives Dixon the football championship for the 1929 season since Rochelle is the only team that defeated Dixon."

"Draper was declared ineligible by C. W. Whitten, manager of the Illinois High School Athletic Association. High school athletics in the state of Illinois are organized with a Board of Control in charge and an acting manager who devotes his full time in the interest of High School athletics. There was no protest made to this Board of Control through the manager, but after a controversy with Rochelle by representatives from the Dixon and Sterling high schools there seemed to be a difference of opinion regarding the interpretation of certain rules. The manager was appealed to as the last word in interpretation and when the facts were laid before him he declared the interpretation as placed upon the rules by the representatives of Dixon and Sterling High Schools was correct. When this interpretation was requested from the Board of

CLARE BRIGGS' WILL ATTACKED BY SECOND WIFE

New York, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Marie Briggs, second wife of Clare A. Briggs the cartoonist, has started suit in Surrogate's court to break his will.

The document, filed for probate Jan. 10, left his estate of "more than $40,000" to Mrs. Ruth Owen Briggs, who divorced him in 1929, and to his three children. The second Mrs. Briggs alleges that when he signed it, Oct. 18, 1920, it was not in the presence of the witnesses who subscribed their names; that he was not of sound mind and legal capacity; and that he was "under the domination, control, and influence of Ruth Briggs, who induced him unlawfully to sign."

According to David M. Neuberger, attorney for Mrs. Marie Briggs, the failure to alter the will after his divorce and remarriage seems to have been an oversight by the cartoonist. An insurance policy for $100,000 also stands in the name of the first Mrs. Briggs.

REVEAL ATTEMPT TO KILL STATES ATTY. ED MARKHAM

Latest Development In the Liquor Scandal In Melrose Park

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A frustrated attempt to bomb Assistant State's Attorney Edward Markham followed by an unsuccessful gun attack upon him, was revealed today. The motive was attributed to the warfare upon an alcohol ring in the suburb of Melrose Park.

The attack upon Markham has been kept secret several days, but when word of it got about yesterday the Assistant State's Attorney filled in the details.

The barking of his dog at the rear of his home about 9:30 o'clock the evening of January 16 took Markham to the yard on the run.

"Of course, I have received several threats," said Markham, who has been active in the state and federal drive against Melrose Park distillers "and I feared my 11-year-old son was being kidnapped."

"As I reached the yard, two men ran from the garage. The dog grabbed one. The other fired point blank at me, but missed. By the time I got my shotgun the two men were running down the alley."

"Inside the garage I found the hood lifted from the automobile. The ignition has been tampered with. I believe for the purpose of planting a bomb which would have exploded when I attempted to start the motor."

No trace had been found early today of Police Lieutenant Rocco Passarella, missing since last week but a newspaper reporter discovered Passarella's brother officer, Paulman Emil Ristau, at Aurora, Ill., last night. Ristau and Mrs. Ristau disappeared at the same time as Passarella. The patrolman refused to discuss his departure from Melrose Park and wound up by tossing the reporter from the house of Mrs. Ristau's mother, where he had been staying.

Ice Man Is Strong For Advertising

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—(UP)—The press as a means of aid to industry was lauded in speeches of delegates to the annual convention of the Illinois Association of Ice Dealers here today.

One of the chief exponents of the newspaper as an aid to business was Robert McKnight, who represented the National Association of Ice Industries.

McKnight declared that "newspaper advertising is the backbone of local trade development."

"It is the strongest weapon the ice man has against unfair competition," he said.

Five Die In Crash Of French Airplane

Dieppe, France, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Five persons were killed when a taxi-airplane crashed against a cliff near Dieppe probably on Monday. Four of the dead were passengers and the fifth was the pilot. The plane had been missing for two days and it was assumed the smashup came in the storm Monday.

ALMOST WHOLE NATION FEELS SEVERE COLD

Local Weather Report-er Recorded 25 Below This Morn

The coldest weather of the winter was experienced here this morning, the bitter cold wave from the north-west driving the mercury in the government thermometer at Shuck & Bates store on Lincoln Way down to 25 degrees below zero.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A cold and cruel winter held merciless vigil over the land today. From the cotton fields of Dixie to the desolate tundra of the northwest territory stretched a sheet of ice, blinding under a cold sun. Zero weather stunned the southwest as it struggled against the fetters of deep snow, and worse than zero weather visited death and misery upon the populace of the central and western prairies.

An ice-bound river fended off the rescuers that sought to bring food and fuel to the little town of Cathlamet, isolated four days by snow and ice on the north bank of the Columbia and western Arkansas.

Sixteen hundred families in southeast Missouri and western Arkansas were sufferers from the cold and flood, 200 of them marooned by the spilled waters of the Big Lake, Ark. region and 200 more in highland tent and box car camps. The leaves of the St. Francis and White rivers were weakening under the pressure of the rising waters. Snow and sleet yesterday added their bit to the misery and today ten below zero temperatures reached over into southwestern Missouri.

Protest Blasting

A menacing ice gorge spanned the Wabash river at Riverton Ind., and aviators were to survey the situation today to determine whether dynamite were necessary. Citizens of Mt. Carmel, Ill., and Vincennes, Ind., protesting against the blasting yesterday in fear of the flood that might be loosed upon them.

At Griffin, Ind., the Wabash and Black rivers had backed their icy waters into the city streets and a further strain at the levee, it was feared, might send a wall of water splashing through the town. A houseboat harboring refugees on the river at Mt. Carmel was reported adrift in the flood.

Thirty families were marooned at Decker, Ind., without supplies. The Weather Bureau at Chicago reported an unusual high pressure area extending across the entire country, without a barometric reading below 30 inches at 7 A. M. today.

Charles City, Ia., Coldest

Charles City, Ia., was the coldest spot on the map at 30 below, but zero held sway from Indiana to Arkansas, Texas and the Rockies. Trains and motorists were marooned in the drifts heaped by the recent blizzard, and around Temple, Texas, the towns were threatened with a gas shortage by the breaking of a huge main. The mercury was falling in the sub-twenties in Nebraska and Chicago and its suburbs reported temperatures around 10 below. Four persons were frozen to death in the Chicago area.

The Weather Bureau reported below normal temperatures throughout the country, except most of the Atlantic slope and portions of California. In Dixie the unwonted cold was moving from Mississippi and Tennessee toward Alabama, Georgia, Virginia and the Carolinas. Meanwhile up on the sea-warmed Alaskan coast, the mercury ranged from 36 to 40 above zero. In the Yukon, however, it was 38 below.

The mercury in Stark county thermometers, becoming familiar with the lower ranges, slid down to 22 and 28 sub-zero today, the coldest in 31 years.

At DeKalb the government instrument at the State Normal College pointed to 24 below last night but warmed up to 18 below today.

An unidentified Negro was found frozen to death near the downtown business section of Champaign. The temperature fell to 11 below last night and was still ten below this morning.

Aurora reported a minimum of 20 below zero.

Benjamin Franklin is said to have introduced the game of poker in 1790.

CITY WILL NOT OBJECT TO I. N. U. DREDGING RIVER

Proposition was Discussed At City Council's Weekly Session

The city of Dixon, at least for the present, will offer no objection to the proposed deepening of the channel of Rock river from the dam to a point west of the Illinois Central bridge by the Illinois Northern Utilities Company this summer. It was decided at last evening's regular meeting of the city council. A communication was read to the council from C. M. Waters of Sterling, associate government engineer, in which he asked if the council planned to object to the dredging operation. It is proposed to dredge a channel 350 feet wide with a depth of four feet near the south shore, using the gravel to fill dangerous holes now existing in the river bed.

Two of the smaller islands west of the Galena avenue bridge are also to be removed by the dredging operations, the larger island to remain. However, should the city desire the removal of the larger island and assist financially, this island will also be removed.

Park Board's Position.

Louis Pitcher of the Dixon park board was before the council and Mayor Frank D. Palmer called upon him to state the park board's attitude with reference to the proposed deepening of the channel. Mr. Pitcher stated that in all probability there would be some dredging done near the north shore to provide two channels below the dam. The sewer outlet just west of the Galena avenue bridge on the north side, Mr. Pitcher stated, at low levels is the source of some offensive odor. By lowering the water level, this condition would be aggravated, and for this reason, it is planned to deepen a channel on the north side of the river, he explained.

Mr. Pitcher also called attention to the possibility of the lowering of the stage of water below the dam, exposing the piling supporting the piers of the Galena avenue bridge and bringing about more rapid deterioration. These conditions have been presented to the engineering department of the Illinois Northern Utilities company. Mr. Pitcher told the council and were easily remedied. By conducting some dredging operations on the north side of the river, the sewage condition would be benefited and in the channels dredging, it was proposed to make small gravel islands at the base of each of the piers, thus eliminating the deterioration of the piling. The improvement as outlined, would benefit instead of detract from the natural beauty of Rock river, Mr. Pitcher told the council.

At the conclusion of the council meeting, which was one of the most interesting in many weeks, the board of local improvements held a brief session. The board was to have heard objections to the paving of North Peoria avenue from Boyd to Everett streets, but no opposition was voiced and a resolution adhering to the scheme was passed.

First Damage Suit Against City Is On

The first of three damage suits against the city of Dixon in the sum of $10,000 each, was started before a jury in the Circuit Court this morning. Mrs. Olive Blackburn, administratrix of the estate of Mrs. Leonora McPherson, deceased, is the complainant. Mrs. McPherson was drowned in Rock river at the foot of Hennepin avenue about 11 o'clock on the night of April 13, 1929, when an automobile owned and driven by Louis Sarver backed over the river bank. Similar suits have been filed against the city by relatives of Mrs. Etta Shoemaker and Louis Sarver who also met their deaths in the same fatality. Attorney Clyde Smith is assisting City Attorney E. Wingert in the defense.

Inheritance Tax On Big Estate Is Paid

The largest single amount of state inheritance tax to be paid into the office of County Treasurer Dorrance Thompson in the history of Lee county, was paid this morning. A sum of $4,544.43, representing the amount of state inheritance tax from the estate of the late Nathan A. Petrie, Ashton banker, was paid today and is to be forwarded to the office of the State Treasurer. The County Treasurer's office receives two per cent of the amount for collection. In addition to this amount the federal inheritance tax is also to be paid.

Four Crossing Tragedies

Just 19 days ago, seven school children of Burbank, Ohio, were killed at Shreve, Ohio, near Wooster when a school bus, returning from a basketball game at night, was struck by a Pennsylvania train there. Several others were killed and more than 40 have been injured in other accidents.

According to Rudolph Ursprung, a conductor of Berea, who was one of the first to arrive at the scene, there was a freight train passing east over the crossing as the bus approached. It was believed Taylor waited for the freight train to pass and then drove his bus in front of the fast mail which the freight train probably had hidden.

Train Master A. H. Hancock of Elyria had an opportunity to question Engineer Hand when the train later arrived at Elyria. Hancock said Hand told him the fireman was sitting in coal just before the crash which prevented the fireman from seeing the bus.

Hand said the train was traveling 45 miles an hour. It consisted of

BUS DRIVER ALSO KILLED ON CROSSING

Fourth Tragedy Of Its Kind In Ohio Within Three Weeks

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The worst railroad crossing accident in Ohio in a year today claimed the lives of nine small children and the driver of the bus in which they were riding at Sheldon Road, near Berea, Ohio, 15 miles from Cleveland. One other child was seriously injured.

Rushing toward Chicago at 45 miles an hour, a New York Central mail train struck the bus squarely in the middle. Wreckage and bodies were strewn along the tracks for 500 feet before the train could be stopped.

The bus driver had halted at the edge of the crossing and waited for a freight train to pass. A moment later he drove into the path of the mail train. There was a crash, a grinding of ripping metal and wood and then the screams of dying and injured children.

The identified dead:

Don Taylor, driver.
William Davidson, 10; Rita Zelinski, 9; Vernon Davidson, 7; Evelyn Kaltenback, 7; Jacob Walters, 12; Janita Walters, his sister, 9; Dorothy Zelinski, 11; Vincent Zelinski, 6, brother and sister of Rita; William Pasarik, 10.

The identified injured:

One Girl, May Live
Ethel Davidson, 10. She has a chance to live.

The train, bound for Chicago, hit the bus squarely in the middle, nearly demolishing it, and scattering bodies and wreckage several hundred feet down the track. As quickly as the train could be stopped the crew and others aboard jumped off and rendered to the surviving children all possible aid.

Trucks and automobiles were commandeered and took the injured to Berea hospital and the dead to two morgues.

Cause Undetermined
Cause of the tragedy was undetermined. The crossing was considered dangerous because there were four tracks, but the weather was bright and visibility was good.

The scene of the accident was in a sparsely settled section, however, which, with a long, straight, level right of way, gives the trains a chance to make high speed.

Eight students at Berea high school had left the bus at their school just a few minutes before the vehicle was struck.

All of the children who were killed had been students in from the first to the sixth grades at the Brook Park school in a Cleveland suburb.

After the bodies of the dead and injured were picked up, the train crew, unable to do more, cleared the track of wreckage and resumed the trip.

Section Man Witness
J. H. Beck, a section foreman, who was working on the tracks 1,000 feet west of the crossing, said he saw the bus stop just before it was driven in the path of the rushing locomotive.

A moment later, he said, he saw wreckage flying into the air and bodies hurled right and left. They were scattered 500 feet down the tracks.

The Berea crossing crash was the fourth big bus tragedy in Ohio within three weeks.

time when Lincoln served as a private and a captain in the army of which he later became the Commander-in-Chief.

"The proposed centennial celebration would be a thing of great good to the community. It is a movement in which no particular person is interested but is for the good of the entire community. It should be started immediately and for the welfare, success and prosperity of the city, a date for such a celebration should be determined as early as possible.

The John Dixon family arrived in Dixon in April 1830, but that date is too soon for such a celebration. September 29, 1830 is the date of John Dixon's first commission as postmaster of Dixon, and because of this fact, I believe that the post-office should come in for some recognition in this proposed centennial."

Mayor Palmer assured the delegation that he would assist in every way possible to make the centennial a success and that after careful consideration, he would appoint the general committee, as requested in the resolution, to start plans for such a celebration.

FEEDING MANY BIRDS
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Drew of east of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway, report an unusually large roster of bird "boarders" this winter. Daily they are feeding a covey of over 100 quail, and among the game birds at the feeding boards under the pines at their home they also see regularly two robins, two cardinals, two blackbirds, a meadow lark and numerous phoebe birds. A Dixon young lady also reports hearing a phoebe bird singing outside her room Tuesday morning.

Give your bread crumbs to the starving birds.

WALLS OF BURNED SCHOOL RAZED BY GARAGE WRECKER

Last Chapter of Historic Old School Is Written Saturday

(By L. T. POWERS)

The last chapter in the history of the old Prairieville school building was written about noon Saturday when the walls, which remained standing after the fire of the previous Friday morning were pulled down to prevent the possibility of injury to anyone who might venture too near the ruins.

The wrecking truck owned by the Prairieville garage was used for the purpose. Heavy chains were passed through window and door openings and around sections of the wall, and fastened to the truck. In this way the entire wall time. A few snapshots of the ruins were taken before wrecking operations were begun.

Very few people knew that the work was to be done, and less than a half dozen besides the actual workers were spectators of the final scene. With tears in their eyes and lumps in their throats, they stood watching while the walls which had stood for over 71 years and had sheltered three generations of pupils, crashed to the ground.

Indeed, there has been not a little of pathos and sadness in the passing of this venerable old building. Occupying such a prominent place in the life of the community for so many years, closely identified with its most important events, it will always be remembered with love and pride by its hundreds of former pupils who are still living and whose lives it has helped to influence. Yet on the night when the fire demon claimed it as his victim, it met its fate almost alone. Only a few people witnessed its end, and part of these were passers-by on the highway. Many of the residents of the village and closely surrounding farms were not aroused from their slumbers, and knew nothing about it until morning. Had they known, they would have rallied to its defense in large numbers, but they could have done nothing to save it.

Prairieville school house was built in 1858, just before the stirring times of the Civil War, according to information in the possession of a resident of Prairieville, it seems very probable that C. B. Thummel, Abijah Powers and Moses Warner were the directors at the time the building was erected. In the early days of the war, it seems, a rousing meeting was held at the schoolhouse for the purpose of discussing the question of the young men of the neighborhood enlisting in the army. A number of them were ready to go, but were awaiting the decision of one of their number whose judgment they respected. He decided to enlist, and the whole group entered the army. It is probable that other stirring meetings were held during the war and for political discussion after war times. At the close of the war, the first soldiers' monument in Lee county was erected and dedicated in the school yard by the township of Palmyra, in memory of the Palmyra boys who lost their lives. It was later moved to the Prairieville cemetery.

At one time the enrollment of the school reached 100, and the rooms were filled to capacity. In September 1916 a homecoming celebration was held on the school grounds, when many of the old pupils and teachers were present and old days were recalled, and experiences recounted. Just four years later, on Sept. 6, 1920, at the same place, a memorable celebration occurred, when the newly completed Lincoln highway between Sterling and Dixon was formally dedicated by the mayors of both towns.

MELLON URGES JUSTICE DEPT. BE GIVEN DUTY

Of Enforcing the Prohibition Law: Appeared In Committee

Washington, Jan. 22—(AP)—Secretary Mellon today termed the location of the prohibition enforcement unit in the Treasury as an "illogical choice" and recommended, that it be transferred to the Department of Justice.

The Cabinet officer was the principal witness before the committee as it began hearings on the Williamson bill to make effective President Hoover's recommendation that the responsibility of enforcing the prohibition law be placed with the Justice Department.

After summarizing the measure, Secretary Mellon said it "meets with the approval of the Treasury Department. I recommend the enactment of the proposed legislation."

Mr. Mellon said the responsibility of prohibition enforcement presumably was placed with the Treasury Department because of the enactment of the Eighteenth Amendment, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue was charged with the duty of collecting excise taxes levied on alcoholic liquors sold for beverage purposes and administering the provisions of the denatured alcohol act of 1906.

Illogical Choice
"It was an illogical choice," he asserted. "There is no connection between the assessment and collection of taxes on beverages which it is legal to sell, and the enforcement of laws intended to prohibit their manufacture, transportation and sale."

"When Congress created the Bureau of Prohibition," he continued, "it formally recognized that there is no such relationship. If this be so prohibition is unrelated to the duties of the Treasury Department and to the purposes for which that department was created."

Mellon said the Treasury was primarily responsible for managing the finances of the nation, collecting revenues, and protecting the integrity of the revenue laws and of the currency.

"I know of no reason therefore," he said, "why the Treasury Department should be charged with the duty of enforcing an unrelated penal statute. On the other hand, there is very sound basis for charging the law enforcement department of the government with this task."

"It is the duty of the Department of Justice, acting through United States District Attorneys, to prosecute violators of this and other Federal statutes. It seems to me that better results may be obtained if those who are to try the cases are in a position to control and direct investigations of violations of the law and the gathering of evidence necessary for the prosecution."

The State Department was allowed $16,799,269, an increase of $2,125,556; justice, $31,710,362, an increase of $3,772,992; commerce, $53,098,985; a decrease of $5,703,624, considering the difference in the usual outlay for the fifteenth decennial census, and labor, $12,220,670, an increase of $1,455,240.

Successful Dance Sponsored by the Madonna Guild

The first dance is St. Anne's hall was given last evening under the auspices of the Madonna Guild of St. Anne's Catholic church of North Dixon. Although the weather was extremely cold, the attendance was good, there being about seventy-five guests present.

The orchestra of eight pieces furnished very good music. The floor was in excellent condition. The hall was beautifully decorated with blue and gold streamers and as a part of the furnishings are in blue, the effect was most artistic and satisfying. During the evening tempting refreshments were served by the committee in charge. This dance is the first of many to be given in the future and all expressed the wish that they will prove as delightful as the first one given in the new hall. The hall is to be formally dedicated during the bazaar given the middle of February. A neat sum was realized last evening, but expenses and overhead were heavy.

CHAUFFEUR MURDERED

Cleveland, Jan. 22—(AP)—Charles S. O'Neill, 31, a chauffeur was killed last night when five shots from a shotgun roared through the window of his home while he sat reading. Police blamed a bootlegger's feud.

Mangan-Scovill Wedding Celebrated

The marriage of Miss Marie Mangan and Wilfred J. Scovill was solemnized at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the parsonage to St. Anne's Catholic church, with Reverend W. R. Warner, officiating. Miss Edna Cassens and Henry Eberhardt were the attendants. The single ring ceremony was employed. Witnesses to ceremony were the parents of both the bride and bridegroom. Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mangan and Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Scovill, also the bridegroom's sister, Miss Evaline Scovill.

The bride wore a lovely gown of brown flat crepe, with hat to match, also accessories to her costume matching. She carried pink rosebuds. Her maid of honor wore a chic ensemble in black and carried a bouquet of sweet peas.

Following their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Scovill returned immediately to Sterling. They are residing at 610 1-2 West Seventh street where a beautiful home has been completely furnished by them.

The bride and groom of Saturday are a popular pair in the younger social circles of Twin Cities. Mrs. Scovill graduated from Sterling township high school and later from Brown's Business College. She has been employed in secretarial work at the Northwestern Bank Wire Co. and recently resigned her position. She is a young woman of charm and personality who has many friends.

Mr. Scovill is a representative for Brown's Business College and salesman for the Sco-Bar line of office equipment. He is an active worker in the Boy Scouts, being scoutmaster of troop No. 100, Sterling.

The newlyweds began their married life with the best wishes of a multitude of friends in this community.

DAUGHTERS UNION VETERANS TO MEET

The Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War will meet on Thursday evening in G. A. R. hall at 7:30. As this is the first meeting of the year under the new president, Mrs. Maude Kime, a good attendance is desired.

RUMMAGE SALE AT M. E. CHURCH SATURDAY

Sections 1 and 3 of the M. E. Aid Society will hold a rummage sale Saturday at the church. The entrance will be at the west door of the church.

Large Collars on Coats Obstruct View

In behalf of a number of medium sized, and also people of short stature, a plea is being made to members of the fair sex, and pleas to this sex, are generally granted. It is this—women who wear coats with large, deep and wide fur collars on winter coats are requested to either pull them down over their shoulders in the theaters, remove them, button them up closely about the neck, or in some way evade that chunky and bulky appearance which blocks the view of the person sitting back of the aforesaid large fur or fabric collar. People wearing these huge collars can be just as much of a nuisance to people in back of them as one wearing a hat and refusing to remove the same.

Nothing So Very Genuine About Them!

New York, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Clara Bow, a little girl from Brooklyn, O., made good, came home today to see Harry Richman and the folks.

She brought with her two kisses for Harry, a life sized doll and a cold in the head.

Richman still was sleepy when Miss Bow, her brown, close-fitting hat projecting above the collar of a huge fur coat, came from the train with the doll, "Toots" in her arms. Clara, remembering that she was supposed to be engaged to Richman, turned her back squarely on the 20 photographers and kissed him. He woke up immediately.

Then Miss Bow thought of her public. Once more she kissed Richman while pictures were taken. Then she received reporters.

"When are you going to marry Richman?" she was asked.

"Oh, that's a secret," she replied.

"That's up to Miss Bow, of course," Richman interrupted.

Persons who have seen Miss Bow on the screen vowed she was considerably thinner, and were mildly surprised to note that she wore no rouge.

Richman pushed through the crowd again and steered Miss Bow to a Rolls-Royce to escort her to her hotel.

"Did you make this trip especially to marry Richman?" a reporter shouted.

"I don't know," screamed Miss Bow vaguely, as she shifted "Toots" on her lap. "Maybe it is just a pleasure trip."

Walnut Household Science Club Meets

The Walnut Household Science club held its usual monthly meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Florence Tuckerman with Mrs. Rosa Langford and Mrs. Elmeda White assistant hostesses.

Mrs. Lyle Upton, Mrs. P. C. McDonald, Mrs. Howard Stone and Miss Josephine Meisner were present as guests. Roll call was responded to by short sketches of famous women of Illinois.

A fine paper written by Mrs. Mary E. Dye on the early days of Illinois and of our community, was read by Mrs. Maggie Kruse. It was very interesting and instructive. Another splendid paper was given by Mrs. Anna McMurray, on reminiscences of her parents' pioneer days. In the discussion which followed many interesting facts were brought out.

Mrs. Tuckerman demonstrated drop date cookies, which were later served in a dainty luncheon. During a social hour Mrs. Thos. Bass had charge of some very clever games.

G. R. C. Entertained Monday Evening

The G. R. C. of Grace Evangelical church met on Monday evening with Mrs. Al Buchanan. In spite of severe cold weather there were many members present. After the devotions and business, the class had the pleasure of listening to Miss Lina Miller, who told of her work and that of other helpers in the Kentucky orphanage.

Miss Miller is a former member of the G. R. C. The hostess served dainty refreshments during the social hour which followed.

Merry Gathering At Vaile Home

Feminine members of the force at the Bee Hive, or Elchler Brothers Dry Goods store, formed a merry gathering last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Vaile, where a delicious picnic supper was served and a happy evening was afterwards spent in games. Mrs. Vaile was for-

The Washtub That Holds a Day

The hard work of wash day alone is enough to make you glad to get rid of it. But when you think of how it uses up a whole good day—it's certainly time to call for "Wet Wash." Everything is returned fresh and clean, at a cost of a few cents a pound. Let us take a day out of your washtub every week and give it to you.

Paulina is Having Portrait Painted

By SUE McNAMARA

(Associated Press Feature Service Writer)

Washington Jan. 22.—(AP)—For the first time in her life little Paulina Longworth is having her portrait painted. The event is in honor of her fifth birthday on February 14.

With the Rooseveltian thoroughness, the small daughter of the Speaker of the House and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth is having it done "double." Two Hungarian artists, Elena and Berta de Hellebranth, sisters, are painting Paulina from their individual viewpoints, both working at the same time.

Elena has caught the little girl in a mischievous mood. Berta's portrait is more serious. Paulina looks at both portraits. After some reflection she nods her head at each and says: "yes, that's me."

In the first one she looks like her mother. In the second there is the determined and energetic expression which characterized her famous grandfather.

Mrs. Longworth is said to like both of the portraits. The Hellebranth sisters have already started work on two portraits of Mrs. Longworth in a red dress.

Supper, Dance and Bridge Thursday Eve

A picnic supper at 6:30, a dance and bridge will be on the program for the Elks and their families and friends Thursday evening at the Elks club. Those who do not care to dance may play bridge and prizes will be awarded for the best players. A good attendance is anticipated and desired and a good time is promised all attending.

P. T. A. MEETING THURSDAY

The P. T. A. of the E. C. Smith School will hold a meeting Thursday at the school and a good attendance is desired.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

One of the commonest impressions amongst parents is that little children should know instinctively the things that are right—and as a natural consequence, those that are wrong, too.

Johnny has grown up to the age of four, say, and never does any "ing to shock us or worry us or make us uneasy in all that time, and then suddenly one fine day he slips into the pantry, steals half a dozen cookies, eats them and then calmly denies any knowledge of the matter whatever.

Tears, gnashing of teeth, and fire-works!

What! Our Johnny to be such a liar and a thief! Our child whose father was known as "Honest John," whose grandfather and all his great grandfathers' fathers on both sides back to the crusades were men of honor and piety! Our little Johnny the flower of purest Puritan stock, to steal cookies, brush up the crumbs, and lie; all the while looking like one of Raphael's angels! Horrible!

Ah! A Black Sheep!

And we wonder what carcass of a black sheep dangling on the family tree could have so tainted the blood of this noble line that a hundred years later it came to light in the year 1930 in the form of one small boy just big enough to push a chair from the kitchen through the swing door and clamber up to the second shelf of the pantry where the cookie bowl stood. Surely he must have inherited such wickedness!

From now on we'll have to keep watchful eyes open; to forestall any other manifestations of the blood of the black sheep ancestor to steal and then lie about it. Our own sweet, adorable little boy to turn out like this! How mistaken we were to think him beyond reproach. How we have lived and learned. It just shows you never can tell.

Bosh!

That's the answer to the whole business. I have no patience with mothers who go into hysterics when their small children misbehave.

Don't we know—for we should know—that children don't know right from wrong until they are taught it? That there is no such thing as "instinct" in children to do right?

They have to be taught "right" from the cradle on. Continuously, persistently, both by example and precept, they have to be taught honesty and truthfulness.

Not just by words—but by showing them in fact.

They won't learn perhaps all at once. Like Johnny they may make experiments long after we think the habit of honesty is set. I don't know when it is set permanently. There is a question. Just how far are any of us absolutely honest? Do we know ourselves?

Make children who have taken things from other children go right away and give them back with an apology. Show them they won't have a friend if they steal, or lie. Make it emphatic and keep after them. Lessons learned early stick longest.

THEY WEAR MASKS

I know a woman who has an excellent position writing advertising copy, who never wants it known, because she herself wants to be an artist for art's sake, and consequently, she hates to have people know that she is "commercial."

I know a librarian, who boasts proudly that she does not number one of her fellow workers among her friends. "I play around with artists and writers," she told me. "And they never realize that I am not one of them."

OLD IDEAS HOLD

It seems unbelievable in these days, when all lines of work are open to women, and when it is the individual rather than the job that counts, that the old traditions persist.

We all know that the modern school teacher is not the dried-up, disapproving spinster that she was once painted, and never really was. We know that an actress is not necessarily a wild woman who bursts into ribald songs and becomes intoxicated in the burlesque queen fashion.

We know that a woman need not be a blue stocking to be a lawyer, a doctor, or a librarian. We know that stenographers do not hold the gum chewing concession of the world, and that society girls are not necessarily idlers, wasters and spoiled darlings.

In fact, we know you simply can't classify women by jobs or by their looks—or by their acts. But somehow certain traditions have been developed—and stick.

There was a time when any woman who wanted to do anything outside the home was cartoon material, and could be classified as a freak, and even in these emancipated days, the always glad when they don't know that I am on the stage, then they don't expect me to be wild or wear spangles, and treat me just as they would any other woman."

"Now don't announce to all the men in advance that I am a lawyer, so they will all act as if I were poison," said a very pretty woman, who happens to be a very good lawyer, as well, when I asked her to drop around for tea.

"You know that men have a perfect horror of woman doctors and lawyers, and they can't get away from them fast enough. If they don't guess my profession, I get along beautifully, and no one suspects me of a brain under my bangs, but once the news gets out, the boys move on."

Party for Mr. and Mrs. Grobe

Last Saturday evening about forty five neighbors and friends braved the cold and gathered at the home of Leroy Ransom, to give Mr. and Mrs. Russell Grobe, who were recently married, a miscellaneous shower. Cards furnished the diversion for the evening, after which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. Mr. and Mrs. Grobe received many lovely and useful gifts, as well as the congratulations and best wishes of those present.

Mrs. Eakle Celebrated Her 84th Birthday

Mrs. Almada Eakle, mother of Mrs. Fred Drew of east of Dixon, celebrated her 84th birthday last Thursday, and she did it by keeping herself spryly busy by caring for a sick daughter in Byron. Mrs. Eakle is unusually healthy and active for one of her years, and she has many friends who will unite in wishing her many more happy birthdays and continued good health.

WE FEAR WAR—BUT THAT IS NOT QUITE ENOUGH.

Never has there been as much talk about world peace as in the last 12 months.

The naval conference at London is bringing this peace talk to a focus. The hopes of the world are high again. People are beginning to realize that the slogan of the last war—"the war to end war"—may, after all, be brought to fruition.

This is an accomplishment. It has only been within recent years that people have dared to dream of a reign of enduring peace. The last war frightened us—no question about it. It gave us a dark vision of the human race blowing its own head off, and the fright born of that vision is pushing us into naval conferences, anti-war treaties and world court agreements at a rate we never would have thought possible.

But the job isn't done yet, and there is no sense in our being too hopeful.

H. M. Tomlinson, the British war correspondent and novelist, sounds a timely note of warning. The fear that has brought us this far on the road to peace will not, he says, take us all of the way.

"It is no good thinking a wholesome fear of war will prevent war," he says. "That is but a negative virtue. What we want is a positive desire for peace so passionate if it is threatened that statesmen and diplomats will fear the democracy rather more than they fear the wrath of God."

"Let them once realize that war means the march of a populace on its own capital to prevent an inquiry, and war-minded statesmen and officials will go the way of the plague rats and smallpox."

"Let us make no mistake about it. Reduction of armaments is not good enough. It is no good talking that way in this age of machines manned by myriads of organized craftsmen with their standardized opinions. Airplanes and submarines to destroy homes and cut off sea-borne supplies can be made like fountain pens when required."

"Let our governors know that we not only do not want war, but desire peace as we do sunlight, and let them understand that if we don't get it Americans will attend drastically to Washington and Londoners to the neighborhood of Whitehall—and peace will then be as natural to us as money is to bankers."

That bit of advice might be taken to heart by every American. It is, after all, the old story once more—we can have anything on earth we want, provided only that we want it badly enough. We can have peace, from now to the end of time, if we really want it; if we want it, that is, enough to insist, in season and out of season, that we are going to have it.

The London conference is important, but what happens afterward will be more important. Our statesmen are on the right path. The rest is up to us.

AN ALL-AROUND BUNCO GAME.

Senator Caraway's blast against the tribe of lobbyists is, we believe, largely justified.

The senator isn't complaining so much about the influence the lobbyists have on legislation. In fact, his complaint centers partly on the fact that they don't influence it at all. What he is protesting about is the way these slick gentlemen persuade big industrialists to fee them heavily for exerting a "pull" that in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred is wholly imaginary.

They represent themselves as able to get special favors in Washington, and the organizations that are paying them might just as well keep their money.

That doesn't worry Senator Caraway greatly. What he objects to is the way in which all of this business creates public suspicion. People take the words of the lobbyists at face value and assume that our government is crooked from top to bottom. Business gets gyped, the government gets a black eye—and the only gainer is the lobbyist, pocketing his fee.

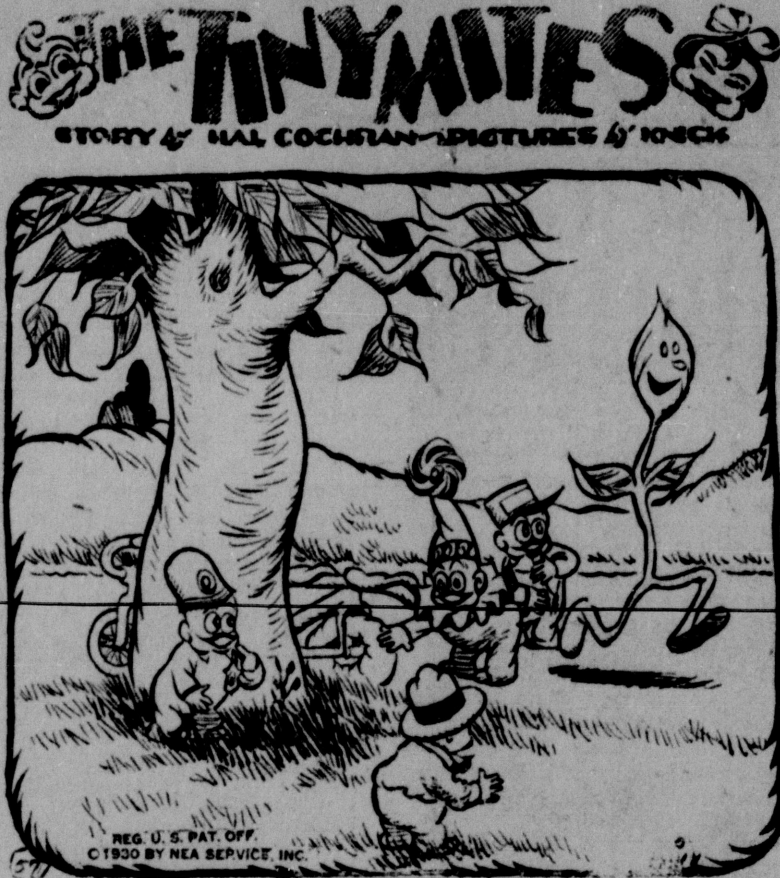

The human foot is changing in appearance, says a science bulletin. Maybe it's the result of constant pressure in street cars.

A movie producer has been trying to find a haughty princess in casting a new show. Why doesn't he ask the girl who sells tickets at any theater?

There will be no more bald-headed men in 50 years, says a hair expert. They also tell us there won't be any flies by that time.

Maybe that parrot disease was started by vaudeville actors with that joke about a couple of other fellows.

Sometimes a bride can't bake her cake and eat it, too.

Wee Scouty, to the rubber man, said, "Well, it seems as if you can do mighty fine repair work on a tire that is flat. We feared that you had spoiled our fun but now just see what you have done. You've helped us out and we are very thankful, sir, for that."

The rubber man laughed. "Ho, ho, ho! I want you Tynmites to know that I am glad to lend a hand to such lads as you. As long as rubber is my name, it seemed that it would be a shame if I just let your tire go. 'Twill soon be just like new."

"Please, just be patient for a while and I will fix things up in style. The leak is plugged with rubber. Now I'll fill the tire. Gee, I wish I had a bike like this. Think of the good times that I miss. When'er you get tired of this bike, just send it back to me."

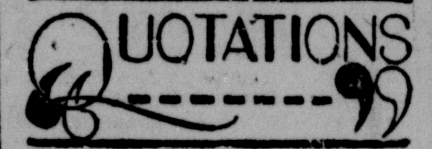

"You bet we will," one Tyn cried. "But, say, would you know how to side? It isn't very easy and you might fall to the ground." Again the rubber man laughed long. Said he, "Oh, nothing would go wrong. It wouldn't hurt me if I fell, 'cause I'd just bounce around."

They chatted for an hour or so. Then Coppy cried out, loudly, "Oh! I think you've made a big mistake. Look at our tire now. Your rubber's in it, good and sound, but now the wheel will not go 'round. It seems you've put more rubber in than good sense would allow."

The rubber man gazed for a spell and then the Tynies heard him yell, "Too bad! Too bad! I'm sorry things are very far from right. That was a very bad mistake and one I didn't mean to make." Before the Tynies knew it, he had bounced right out of sight.

PONY COLLEGE IS MAINTAINED IN WISCONSIN

Kentucky Bred Animals
Get Higher Training
For Circus

By WINTHROP LYMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent
Racine, Wis. — (UP) — Welsh and Shetland ponies, reared in the fertile pastures of Kentucky and taught their abc's in Blue Grass equine prep schools, come to Wisconsin for their college education and a diploma which qualifies them for dignified positions in the world of horses.

For here in Racine county, the Collins' training school offers all the most advanced courses for the tiny ponies, whose ancestors years ago were graduates of the finest foreign halls of learning.

Operated by Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Collins, native Kentuckians, on their farm near here, the equine college prepares the ponies for next summer's carnivals, circuses and horse shows.

Of the 60 students, Beauty, a trim little Shetland, is the most adept and talented. Under the guidance of Prof. Collins she will lie down and play dead, sit on her hind legs, roll a barrel, climb stairs, play marbles, and do a classical front foot dance known as the "High School."

Beauty nearly always receives a grade of "A," and her deportment is the pride of ponyland.

But Beauty is not the only talented pupil attending the Collins' college. There is Shawnee, a "painted" pony who paws out his age; Rose, who poses prettily on a "Patterson," and then bows for applause; Mayflower, whose specialty is sitting on her hind legs like a dog; and Black Gold, whose education is centered upon his barrel rolling proclivities.

Billy, a big black Welsh pony, is dean at the college and is responsible for 100 per cent attendance at classes. Carrying his master, Billy rounds up the ponies and herds them into the school room. After the shaggy students have eaten breakfast and have taken their morning lessons in "Coral hall," they are allowed the freedom of their pasture.

Daily lessons and practice will make the 60 students eligible for graduation by spring. Then proudly carrying their coveted "sheepskins" they will march forth into the realm of "horse business."

TREE A TOMB

BERLIN—An oak tree, 1000 years old, near the little village of Noebdenitz, is claimed to be the tomb of the famed German poet and statesman, Hans von Thumme. The tree had a large hollow in its trunk and in this hollow, back in 1824, Thumme is supposed to have been interred. The cavity has been filled up with concrete.

NEWS CHURCHES

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Dr. John W. Creighton of Canton, China, will speak at the First Presbyterian church Friday evening, Jan. 31. A scramble dinner at 6:30 and the address will follow. All members of the congregation should keep this in mind and mark the time and date in their date books and plan to eat with all the other members of the congregation and then hear Dr. Creighton.

Ruskin Sandbourne, pianist and pedagogue of Duluth, Minn., pupil of Carl Lachmund, the eminent Liszt exponent and pupil, will sing "Noel Oriental" at the Presbyterian church at the morning worship hour Sunday Feb. 2. The music is Mr. Sandbourne's own composition and the words were written by Herrick B. Young, of Teheran, Persia, the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Frank Young.

GIRL'S LIFE AS ARAB

PARIS—The recent erection of a monument here to Isabelle Eberhardt, brings to mind the girl's romantic career. She was the daughter of a French soldier in Africa. She liked the desert life and decided to adopt it. She dressed in Arab clothing and lived for years among the desert tribesmen without her nationality or sex being suspected.

As Barrymores Christened Yacht

Dolores Costello, movie queen, and her actor husband, John Barrymore, are pictured here at the launching of their new yacht, the Infanta, in Long Beach, Calif., just as Mrs. Barrymore broke the traditional bottle of the bow. Their new 120-foot yacht is one of the most luxurious in Pacific waters. Barrymore's beard is being grown for a forthcoming role in the movies.

REFUTES HISTORY

NEW YORK—According to a recent book published by a contemporary, Cellere, by the Alps Publishing Company, Giovanni da Verrazano, an Italian explorer discovered the Hudson River in 1524, 85 years before Hendrik Hudson, supposed discoverer, first sighted it. His trip was financed by Francis I of France.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

With the Cagers

By HERBERT W. BAKER

Associated Press Sports Writer
New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The east fared none too well in football's inter-sectional warfare but it is getting some measure of revenge on the basketball court.

A more or less complete tabulation gives Eastern cage fives a record of 28 victories in 39 games against foes from the midwest, south and far west. Twenty-one of these triumphs have been scored at the expense of midwestern teams; six over southern aggressions and one over the far west. Of the 11 defeats inflicted on the east, eight go to the credit of the mid-west; two to the south and one to the far west.

Most active in defense of eastern honors has been the crack University of Pittsburgh quintet led by Charley Hyatt, former Uniontown, Pa., high school star. Pitt has rolled up 11 straight wins so far this season and eight of them have been over teams from other sections of the basketball front. Pitt's victims include Indiana, Northwestern and Ohio State of the Western Conference; Nebraska of the Big Six; Montana State of the Rocky Mountain Conference; Wittenberg of the Ohio Big Five; Iowa and Notre Dame.

Penn. Syracuse and Duquesne have chalked up three inter-sectional triumphs each. Penn beat Indiana and Ohio State of the Western Conference, and Georgia Tech of the Southern but was forced to bow to Michigan in another start. Syracuse triumphed Michigan State and Ohio University and broke even in two games with Creighton of the Missouri Valley Conference. Duquesne accounted for victories over John Carroll of Cleveland, Adrian of Michigan and Elmhurst of Illinois but the Dukes were beaten by Loyola's great five at Chicago as well as by Iowa. Five of the inter-sectional warfare is over for another year and in the few games that remain the east hardly can be forced out of its commanding position.

Logansport, Ind.—Exertion in a basketball game caused the death of Homer Morrison, 48, who suffered a stroke of apoplexy during a game here a few days ago and died later.

Chicago—Headlined by a battle between Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and Vince Dundee, the Chicago Stadium bill Friday night will bring together Tony Herrera, Irish Jackie Pilkington, two promising lightweights. Pilkington recently took a decision over Herrera.

Chicago—Charles Arthur Shires, the White Sox first baseman who has indulged in enough ring engagement during the past few weeks to net some $10,000, thinks he'll be able to go along a "million per cent" with Donie Bush, the new White Sox manager during the coming baseball season.

Charles Arthur and Bush were closeted in a short meeting yesterday. Whether Shires and Bush discussed his coming contract with the Sox was not announced.

Chicago—Those who are interested in heavyweight wrestling were concerned today regarding what measures will be taken to combat the Illinois Athletic Commission decision, decreeing that heavyweight wrestlers will not be allowed to operate in this state in the future. The commission announced, "after careful investigation," that heavyweight wrestling will not be permitted in this state in the future until further notice.

Montreal—Many American players were entered in the Canadian indoor tennis championships which commenced on the Montreal indoor tennis club courts today.

George Lott of Chicago, third ranking American player was seeded No. 1 of the foreign group, followed in order by Fritz Mercier of Bethlehem, Pa.; Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., present champion; and Herbert Bowman, New York.

New York—Art De Kuhl, Brooklyn Italian, 214, scored a technical knockout over Big Bill Hartwell, Kansas City Negro, 218½, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round bout at Brooklyn last night.

Boxers' Association Hits Back At Landis

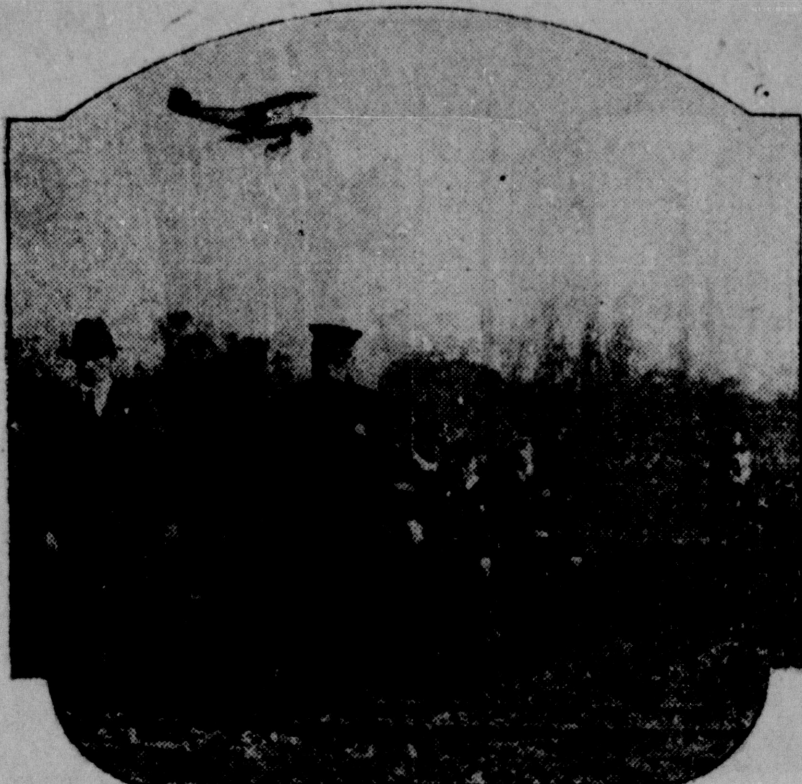

Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—And now boxers have turned up their noses on professional baseball.

No little peeved by Baseball Commissioner Landis' edict that no baseball player can compete in the prize ring, the Benevolent Association of Boxers, headed by Promoter Jim Sullivan of Chicago, has countered with an order that none of its boxers can play baseball.

"Fight all you want to, but you've got to stay away from baseball playing," the boxers' association demanded.

DEMPSEY SEES CHANCE TO GET OUT OF THE RED

Has Some Real Drawing Cards On Tap For Coliseum

By BERT DEMBY

United Press Staff Correspondent
Chicago, Jan. 22.—(UP)—A loser in all his Chicago promotional ventures, principally because most fistic attractions were "swept up" by other promotional interests, Jack Dempsey finally has maneuvered himself into a position where he stands to make some money.

Jack's light of day has come in the form of two lightweightweights, Leo Lomski and Jimmy Braddock. Those two fellows fought a great draw here the other night, putting up what perhaps was the greatest light heavyweight battle Chicago ever saw.

Dempsey lost some $11,000 on the show but he developed two great drawing cards. Either Lomski or Braddock will draw now and Jack probably will stage a coup by putting both of them on against different opponents in one show.

The opinion prevails Dempsey can put the two on and then in event both win, match them against each other, making money on both shows. Besides these attractions Jack has other bills lined up which appear certain to get him out of the "red" on his Chicago promotional ventures.

First there is Dempsey's plan to stage a series of heavyweight bouts. Heavyweight bouts have always drawn good money in Chicago and with the right kind of matchmaking Jack appears certain to make money on these fights.

Mastro vs. Chocolate
Then his sleeve Dempsey has an idea that he can send Earl Mastro into the ring against Kid Chocolate. That match is the prince of "naturals" for the town. Mastro is a local kid who is a great fighter and the fans here believe he can whip Chocolate, the pride of the east.

Too, Jack has an idea he can persuade Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, to defend his title against Jimmy McLarnin. Fields, a hometown boy has a great local following. McLarnin won his way into the hearts of middlewestern fans when he recently took a ten round decision over Sammy Mandell, the lightweight champion, the only decision which Mandell has lost.

There is a feeling out here that either Mandell or McLarnin can whip Fields. Mandell has beaten the welterweight champion and McLarnin has knocked out Fields.

Fields is fighting here Friday night with Vince Dundee, brother of Joe Dundee, the man whom Jackie beat to win the welterweight title. Fields recently won a ten round decision from Dundee but there are many who believe Vince will turn the tables Friday night.

The one match which Dempsey would like to stage here is a real "natural"—A fight between Tuffy Griffith and Otto von Porat, the two best heavyweight which the middle-west has produced recently.

This bout probably will not materialize for each of the two principals can make enough money fighting fellows not so good to prevent their appearance against each other.

But the fact remains that Jack finally has gotten a break. Slowly but surely he has waded into the boxing business to the extent that he stands a good chance of getting real attractions and Chicago hopes that he will get back some of the money which he has lost without complaint.

investment with us and we want to realize on him to the fullest extent. "As far as allowing other clubs to contribute to his salary, that would be construed as syndicate baseball. We have paid Ruth $530,000 in salary since he has been with the Yankees and I have never asked help from any other club.

"In regard to his 1930 contract I think that Ruth has been ill advised. He knows he can draw the largest salary in baseball for 1930 and 1931 and if he can play as well in 1932 as when he first became a Yankee he will be duly rewarded. I do not expect we will have any serious trouble in signing Ruth for next season."

General Manager Ed Barrow, in discussing Ruth's case, said that the Yankees had made their best offer and that any further negotiations would have to be opened by Ruth himself.

Disposal Of Purse Up To High Court

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 22.—(AP)—William H. Hanlon, chairman of the California Boxing Commission, said he could not obey an order of the Illinois State Athletic Commissioner that a $10,000 forfeit posted by Micker Walker, middleweight boxing champion, be given to the Shrine Hospital.

Walker posted the money as a guarantee that he would risk his title by last September, when the Illinois Commission permitted him to go out of his class to meet Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title here last March. Walker's manager, Jack Kearns, has a temporary injunction to prevent the money being paid.

Hanlon said the disposition of the money was solely up to the California Supreme Court, which has the matter of awarding the cash on its docket. The court does not convene until 30 days hence and until that time Hanlon intends to keep possession of the money.

NAVY CONFERENCE TURNS BOLDLY TO MAJOR PROBLEMS

Advisory Discussions Are Under Way: Resume Parley Tomorrow

By BYRON PRINCE

(Associated Press Staff Writer)
London, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The five-power naval conference turned boldly and directly today to some of the most troublesome problems on its pathway to success.

The day's recess between yesterday's convening session and tomorrow's resumption "in committee" was formally only. Far from marking time the delegations determined to profit by amity and harmony apparent at the opening session in solving their political and technical problems.

France, inevitably, was the center of the picture. It was from Paris one of the most trouble-laden pronouncements of the pre-conference exchanges emanated. It was Paris which was most concerned over the Italian demand for Franco-Italian naval parity. Today it was Andre Tardieu, French premier, who stood most conspicuously in the thick of the first earnest effort to steer the conference away from danger.

Discussions Advisory
Thus far at least the discussions have appeared to be largely advisory, without any attempt to reach conclusions. The French delegation continued to assure their colleagues of willingness to make every reasonable concession to maintain harmony. They asserted that certain primary French expectations must be met and France accorded a proper place among the naval powers if any agreement reached is to be acceptable and lasting.

There was every indication that this viewpoint was listened to with deepest understanding by the other delegations at conferences which were held last night and continued today. There was no evidence that effort was being made at this stage even to dispute the French claims.

The other delegations, however, notably the British and American were anxious that the French aspirations be completely and candidly developed at the very outset so they could be studied in the light of full understanding.

Leaders Met At Dinner
All participants declined to discuss or detail subjects discussed at a widely commented dinner party last night attended by the heads of the American, British and French delegations.

Ramsay MacDonald, Arthur Henderson, Colonel Henry L. Stimson, Dwight Morrow, Andre Tardieu and Aristide Briand were present. The meeting lasted well into the night. Those present would say afterward only that they had had a pleasant evening, spent together discussing general problems.

Today was given over entirely to informal consultations reaching in many directions. The next general meeting of the delegates will be tomorrow at St. James' Palace, when the conference will resolve itself into a committee of the whole for private consideration of procedure.

It was well understood, however, that a committee of 27 was too large to be expected to make much progress except along ways mapped by smaller committees. General expectation was that when the ground has been prepared further by informal discussions a "big five," composed of the heads of the delegations, will be constituted to take troublesome problems in hand.

May Consult Italians
Although no plans yet have been made for a British and American meeting with the Italians to develop their viewpoint as that of the French was developed last night, it would cause no surprise if some such talk were arranged in the immediate future.

Thus far the Japanese delegation has taken no conspicuous part in the inter-delegation consultations, although they were received late yesterday by Mr. MacDonald.

Japan's desire for a greater tonnage ratio than was accorded her at Washington remained momentarily in the background, although the delegates were prepared to consider it in due time.

The present effort in general seems bent toward bringing the other powers toward the sort of agreement in principle already reached between the United States and Great Britain, leaving the details of execution to a later stage of the conference.

Baby Born to Sentenced Mother

Sentenced to 75 days in jail on a liquor sale charge, Mrs. Sue Brown, of Monterey county, California, an expectant mother, was rushed from jail to the county hospital where the baby was born dead, leaving her in a serious condition. Her husband declared he would file murder charges against officials responsible for his wife's jail sentence if she died. Mrs. Brown maintains that, at the time of the trial, she thought she was pleading guilty to a charge of possessing home brew. She is shown here with her two other children.

Klekamp never regained sufficient clearness of mind to tell a connected story of the attack and what details of the battle made by the dog to save the farm hand were available were told by Frerichs.

He said Klekamp had been assisting him in some work with a team and that while he remained to unhitch the horses Klekamp proceeded to the other side of the barn.

Frerichs said he was suddenly attracted by a cry from Klekamp and the snarling of the dog, which was much attached to the aged farm hand. He rushed to the other side of the building where he found Klekamp lying on the ground and the dog standing guard over him. The bull was seen hurrying away, routed from the attack by the dog.

Klekamp's injuries indicated that he had been badly trampled and gored. He died at a hospital here late yesterday.

REAL, NOT REEL
Los Angeles—While a large crowd stood outside and watched two men go through elaborate antics in robbing a drug store, the two men made a good job of it and escaped. The crowd thought that the stunt was just another of Hollywood's usual movie scenes and paid no attention other than to cheer the victim's struggles. It was learned later that the two burglars were real and had escaped with $200.

HONEST
Buffalo—It took Dr. Robert S. Hambleton 58 years to pay off a debt, but he finally did. When he visited his home town of Midway, Ky., he paid his old grocer $13.50, a debt contracted 58 years ago. The grocer, according to Hambleton, transferred the money to the persons to whom he sold his business some years ago.

Mysterious signals the past few days lend credence to the rumor leaders said. Shots have been fired as planes passed overhead and flared lighted at night.

Dog Battled Enraged Bull To Save Master

Litchfield, Ill., Jan. 22.—(UP)—How an enraged bull gored Frank Klekamp, 78 year old farm hand, and inflicted fatal injuries as a shepherd dog battled to save him, was revealed at an inquest into Klekamp's death here today.

Klekamp, who was employed on the farm of Elmer Frerichs, near here, was found unconscious by the farmer Monday afternoon near a farm barn. The shepherd dog stood over him and the bull was hurrying away, apparently routed from the attack by the dog.

Klekamp never regained sufficient clearness of mind to tell a connected story of the attack and what details of the battle made by the dog to save the farm hand were available were told by Frerichs.

He said Klekamp had been assisting him in some work with a team and that while he remained to unhitch the horses Klekamp proceeded to the other side of the barn.

RUMOR MISSING FLIER IS HELD BY INDIAN TRIBE

Sheriff's Posse Will Investigate Latest Report Today

Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 22.—(UP)—Rumors that Maury Graham, missing Western Air Express pilot, is being held captive by Indians on the Piute Reservation near where the flier is believed to have gone down in a blizzard 12 days ago were investigated by a sheriff's posse today.

The deputies will attempt to confirm a report by an Indian hostile to the Piutes that Graham was found by the half wild tribe and forcibly detained.

The Piutes are in Beaver county, Utah, and their stamping grounds are parallel to the Las Vegas-Salt Lake City mail run over which Graham was flying when he disappeared. It is only a few miles from the district where 46 planes and several hundred men are searching for the lost airman.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. You'll be glad.

Things Shape Up For Jack Sharkey

New York, Jan. 22.—(UP)—Events are shaping themselves for Jack Sharkey of Boston to meet Max Schmeling of Germany for the heavyweight boxing championship at Yankee Stadium June 26.

Schmeling has withdrawn from the proposed match at Atlantic City March 29 and through his American manager, Joe Jacobs, has announced that he will not enter the ring again until he meets the winner of the Sharkey-Scott match at Miami February 27.

The Sharkey-Schmeling match probably will be staged for the benefit of the milk fund whose promoters are quietly at work to have Schmeling reinstated in New York. The German's license was revoked last summer for failure to meet Scott for Humbert J. Fugazy at Ebbets Field.

Jacobs has promised Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter who was to have staged the Atlantic City bout, that Schmeling will fight the winner of the Sharkey-Scott match under his promotion if he can sign the latter.

WIDOW OF GREAT COMMONER JOINS HIM IN ETERNITY

Mrs. W. J. Bryan Died In Hollywood, Calif., Last Night

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 22—(AP)—Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, widow of the late Democratic leader, today is joined in death with her famous husband, whose constant companion she was, in victory and defeat, from that October day in 1894 when he led her to the altar and slipped onto her finger the ring inscribed "Won 1890; one 1894."

Mrs. Bryan, whom the great Commoner called "My mental safety valve," died last night in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Grace Bryan Hargreaves, wife of a Beverly Hills, Cal., banker. She had been suffering from arthritis for about 12 years, and her condition became suddenly worse upon her return here a short time ago from Miami, Fla., where she visited another daughter, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens, member of Congress from Florida. Mrs. Bryan was 69 years old, and survived her husband by four years.

Throughout the 41 years of their married life, her husband's career was Mrs. Bryan's career. They discussed everything together—men, events and every new political issue. She assisted him with his mail and read aloud to him while he chopped down trees for exercise. In order that she might share more intimately his thoughts and be of greater aid in his efforts, she took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar.

The burial of Mrs. Bryan will be beside that of her husband in Arlington National Cemetery, Washington, D. C., where the body will be taken following funeral services here.

Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, during the lifetime of her noted husband, was known to thousands of their political friends as "Bryan's inspiration."

Throughout the more than 35 years of Mr. Bryan's political career she was his constant companion, always at his side in victory or defeat. "My mental safety valve," he called her.

While still a bride, Mrs. Bryan conceived the idea of that close companionship in her husband's career. In order that she might share more intimately his thoughts and be of greater aid in his efforts, she took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar. She never entertained the idea of a separate career.

After the death of Mr. Bryan his widow completed his memoirs, in which she wrote what constituted the guiding principle of her life: "I hold the theory that if a wife does not show an interest in her husband's work and does not go with him when he asks her, the time will come when he will cease to ask her."

That time never came. Through numerous political campaigns, in three of which Mr. Bryan was the Democratic candidate for president, through seven national conventions, the halls of Congress, the office of Secretary of State and years of lecturing, the Great Commoner never ceased to "ask her," she never failed to respond.

Her husband's career was Mrs. Bryan's life. They discussed everything together—men, questions, events and every new political issue. She assisted him with his enormous volume of mail and read aloud to him while he chopped down trees for exercise.

Notwithstanding her husband's three defeats for the presidency, she urged him to run again in 1912 because "it promised to be a Democratic year." Of that she later wrote: "I wanted him to take the nomination; I wanted him to conquer his enemies. We had worked so long and so hard. But he refused, saying, 'The Lord does not mean to shorten my life by putting this burden upon me.'"

In the ensuing campaign, Mr.

Slays Dry Agents

George Moore of West Palm Beach, Fla., who shot and killed two federal prohibition agents when they attempted to search his home for liquor, is shown here with Sheriff Bob Baker. Moore is on the right. The slain agents were Robert K. Moncre and F. R. Patterson. Their death caused Prohibition Commissioner Doran to hasten to West Palm Beach from Washington.

Bryan made speaking tours for Woodrow Wilson. Near the close of the campaign Mrs. Bryan was taken ill and at Washington underwent a serious operation without telling her husband, "so that he could speak without any anxieties."

Mrs. Bryan's maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Baird. She was born June 17, 1861, at Perry, Ill., where her father conducted a general merchandise and commission business. She and Mr. Bryan first met at a reception at her boarding school at Jacksonville, Ill., and six years later were married, October 1, 1884. They had three children: Ruth Baird, who became Mrs. Reginald A. Owen, William Jennings Bryan, Jr., and Grace Dexter, who became Mrs. Richard L. Hargreaves.

The courtship of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan included several incidents of the romantic fiction type. She was only 17 when she met her future husband at the boarding school reception. Later writing of that event, Mrs. Bryan said: "Only one boy attracted my attentions and I asked, 'Who is that tall fellow with dark hair and eyes?' About the same time Bryan singled her out of all the girls, asked her name and was presented."

Later, with the consent of Miss Baird's mother they went riding. It was then the days of the horse and buggy. That little event of their courtship, however, was regarded as a serious infringement of the school's rigid discipline and the irate principal would not permit her to remain for the graduation exercises. He himself solemnly, escorted her to the train.

Bryan was concealed in the baggage car, and when the train started, joined Miss Baird and rode home with her to ask her father's consent to pay his attentions to her. The next year Miss Baird returned to her studies and won the highest honors in the school. They waited five years before Mr. Bryan slipped onto her finger the ring inscribed "Won 1890; One, 1894." Meanwhile he had concluded his law studies and established himself in the practice of his profession.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan took up their residence at Jacksonville, Ill., where, instead of indulging in social activities they studied together such subjects as tariff, railroad problems, political economy and the science of government. Mrs. Bryan also began the course in law which her husband had pursued. After two and one-half years she passed her examinations, the only woman in a class of 17, among whom she ranked third. She was admitted to the bar at Lincoln, Neb., to which city they had removed and which was their home for many years.

Between political campaigns Mr. and Mrs. Bryan traveled extensively making trips to Europe, Canada, Mexico, the West Indies and South America and a tour of the world in 1905-06. On these trips they met many of the rulers of the world as well as great and famous persons.

When the portfolio of secretary of state was offered to Mr. Bryan he and his wife discussed several times the one obstacle in the way of his acceptance: Would it necessitate serving wine at their table? All their lives they had been teetotalers and Mrs. Bryan had been active in W. C. T. U. and Y. W. C. A. work as well as in the Presbyterian Church. President Wilson left the question to Mr. Bryan's judgment and after his acceptance there followed the novelty in diplomatic circles of the wineless dinners of state.

For several years Mr. and Mrs. Bryan made their home at Miami, Florida. Since the sudden death of her husband near the end of the Scopes evolution trial at Dayton, Tenn., in 1925, Mrs. Bryan had spent much of her time in California where her son lived.

At the age of 55, Mrs. Bryan took up the study of the pipe organ getting up at 6 A. M., and driving five miles for her lesson. She had always wanted to play, she said, but up-to-then never had had the time. "People always can learn the things they really wish to know," she insisted. She was noted among her friends for her keen sense of humor, her enduring charm.

ROCHELLE NEWS

Rochelle — Friends of Ralph Charters, president of the Ashton Bank, Ashton, are greatly alarmed over his condition. Reports from the Lincoln hospital here, where he underwent a serious abdominal operation a week ago, are that his condition is extremely critical. Relatives have sent for a brother who resides in the west.

Rev. O. H. Linnemeier, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, submitted to an operation for removal of tonsils at the Lincoln hospital Tuesday morning.

Earl Reintz, of Esmond, submitted to an emergency operation at the Lincoln hospital Monday evening.

Mrs. Pearl Honsycott, of Davis Junction, submitted to an abdominal operation at the hospital Saturday. She is doing nicely.

Mrs. Christine Stoppel of Rochelle submitted to a thyroid operation at the hospital Monday.

L. R. Mattern of Ashton underwent an operation for hernia at the Lincoln hospital here Tuesday morning.

Raymond Poelge had his tonsils removed Saturday.

Bernice Drummond had her tonsils removed at the hospital Saturday.

Gilbert Reed of Ashton is receiving treatment for his eyes.

Mrs. Edward Kersten of Ashton is receiving treatment at the Lincoln hospital.

T. H. Mars and W. T. Eckert are on a business trip to St. Louis.

Mrs. Leslie S. Bain left Monday for Dodgeville, Wis., where she will visit her father, William Dickinson and other relatives, remaining for the balance of the week. Miss Lu Bain is keeping house for her brother during Mrs. Bain's absence.

Mrs. Marc Fowler, president of the Illinois State Federation of Women's clubs will address the Rochelle Woman's club at their next regular meeting which will be held in the auditorium of the Junior high school at Central School at 2:30 o'clock, Friday afternoon, January 24th. Mrs. Fowler's subject will be, "The American Indian." Mrs. Fowler is considered an authority on this subject which she has given much study. Mrs. A. K. Van Artsdale is chairman for this program. The club will have as special guests for this meeting the pupils of the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Music will be furnished by the Camp Fire Girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Seth V. Hoon and a number of other prominent executives of the Midwest Canning Corporation, both here and at DeKalb, are attending the annual convention of the National Canners' convention now in session at the Stevens hotel in Chicago.

Harry Yeagle of Philadelphia, Pa., a graduate of the University of Illinois, has accepted a position as chemist for the Morzan Dyeing and Bleaching Co. Mr. Yeagle succeeds Albert Kingma, who recently became purchasing agent for the Midwest Canning Corporation here.

Jeannette Rummery, employed at Kable Brothers Co., Mt. Morris, spent the week-end with her mother in Rochelle.

Mrs. Julia Burright, sister of S. M. Burright, and a patient at the Oregon hospital is not improving in health as fast as friends would like to see her.

Mrs. Minnie Stewart of Rochelle will move to Chicago February 1, where her son, Dalley, is employed. Mrs. Stewart is a sister of Charles E. Dalley of Chana and Elijah Dalley of Rockford.

The Rochelle Egg Farms have started their incubators and in a few weeks will be marketing baby chicks. The Rochelle institution is one of the principal units of Bowd Stauffer, Mt. Morris hatcheryman, who started his hatchery the last of the week. Mr. Stauffer has installed additional brooding equipment, with the idea of enlarging in that phase of the business. Mr. Stauffer has hatcheries in Foreston, Oregon, Rochelle and Ashton, each under the direction of a resident manager.

A Norwegian dance contest will be a feature of the next Odd Fellows dance which will be held in two weeks.

ELECTRIC WELDER PRAISES KAVATONE
Acme Welded Pipe & Coil Company Employee Finds Relief in Few Bottles.

"I can truthfully say that Kavatone has done better in my case than I ever dared hope. My stomach is now in first-class condition." This statement was made by Louis Prough, 2013 Francis Street, Jackson, Mich. Mr. Prough continues: "My stomach was in a terrible condition. Everything I ate seemed to sour in my stomach and nauseate me. I would be sick for hours after eating a hearty meal."

LOUIS PROUGH.

"My kidneys didn't function properly either and I had to get up as many as four times at night. There was a constant ache across the small of my back and I had pains in my limbs. I have used three bottles of Kavatone now and I can eat anything that I like without the slightest fear of distress, and the bad taste has left my mouth. And I sleep better—in fact I sleep from the time I go to bed until it is time to get up, and I feel more going to work than I have for years. Altogether I feel that I am in better condition throughout my whole system. I don't mind saying that I really never expected to find one medicine that would do everything that Kavatone has done for me, but it turned out to be just what I was needing and I am giving it my endorsement and recommending it to others."

The Kavatone man is at The Ford Hopkins Co., where he is daily meeting the public and personally explaining the merits of this great preparation. The famous Kavatone figure (an ingenious human torso showing every organ of the body) is used in this demonstration and everyone is cordially invited to see and study this figure, an experience which will be interesting and instructive.

TWO MODERN PRINCESSES

NO CINDERELLA

ROYAL CO-ED

"Dressed like a princess" sounds fine but it doesn't mean a luxurious wardrobe to pretty Princess Eudoxie sister of King Boris of Bulgaria. So impoverished is her native land that the little princess buys only one new dress a year, according to a statement made at the Hague debt conference by the Bulgarian protocol chief—who himself makes only $15 a week! She often wears the simple costume in which she is shown here.

The only feminine heir to a European throne, Crown Princess Juliana of Holland, above, intends to be well versed in world affairs when the time comes for her to be a queen and wear a crown on her bobbed head. Although not yet 21, she has just been awarded a degree of Doctor of Philosophy after passing her final examination in international law at the University of Leyden.

children of Chicago are guests of Mr. Bain's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bain, residing north of town. Their son Billy is to remain with his grandparents for a more extended visit.

George Carolin, the genial grain buyer at Flagg Station, has a record for mileage in commuting between Flagg Station and Sterling which should put him in Ripley's "Believe It Or Not" Hall of Fame. Mr. Carolin has made over 400,000 miles since he took over the grain elevator at the village seventeen years ago last November. The first two years he rode the Sterling passenger. The balance of the time he has driven every week day with only a few exceptions a round trip between Sterling and Flagg Station of almost 75 miles each day.

A couple of more cases of men with staying qualities in the Flagg Station neighborhood are those of Jay Furman and Lew Barth. Jay Furman, living on the Pickle Brothers farm rented this farm 21 years ago and has lived there continuously since. Lew Barth, who resides two miles south of Flagg Station has also lived 21 years on his father-in-law's farm.

John Hatfield, son of Mrs. Sadie Hatfield, of Joelton, Tenn., left home three years ago for Rochelle, Illinois, and falling to hear from him his mother in instituting coun-ry-wide search. Mrs. Hatfield received a single letter one month after his departure but has heard nothing since. It is believed that Hatfield sold a Ford sedan in Rockford in 1926, after which he went to Rochelle. Communications can be sent to Hatfield's brother-in-law, J. M. Pitt, 827 Delmas Ave., Nashville, Tenn.

Long Whiskers And Hair Are In Style

Danville, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—Long whiskers and locks are quite the style this week in Alorton, a village of 200 residents, near here.

Roy Pollock, proprietor of one of its tow barber shops, broke his right arm Monday. Ora Hays, cashier of the State Bank, who assists in the Pollock shop outside banking hours, is undergoing treatment at Lake View hospital here. Joe Graham, owner of the only other tinsorial parlor in Alorton, is confined to his home by illness and his shop too is closed.

Waitress Made Her Last Whoopee: Dead

Evanston, Ill., Jan. 21—(AP)—At the age of 18 years Miss Pearl Grove has, in her own words, "made her last whoopee." She killed herself last night at the Evanston hospital, where she was a waitress.

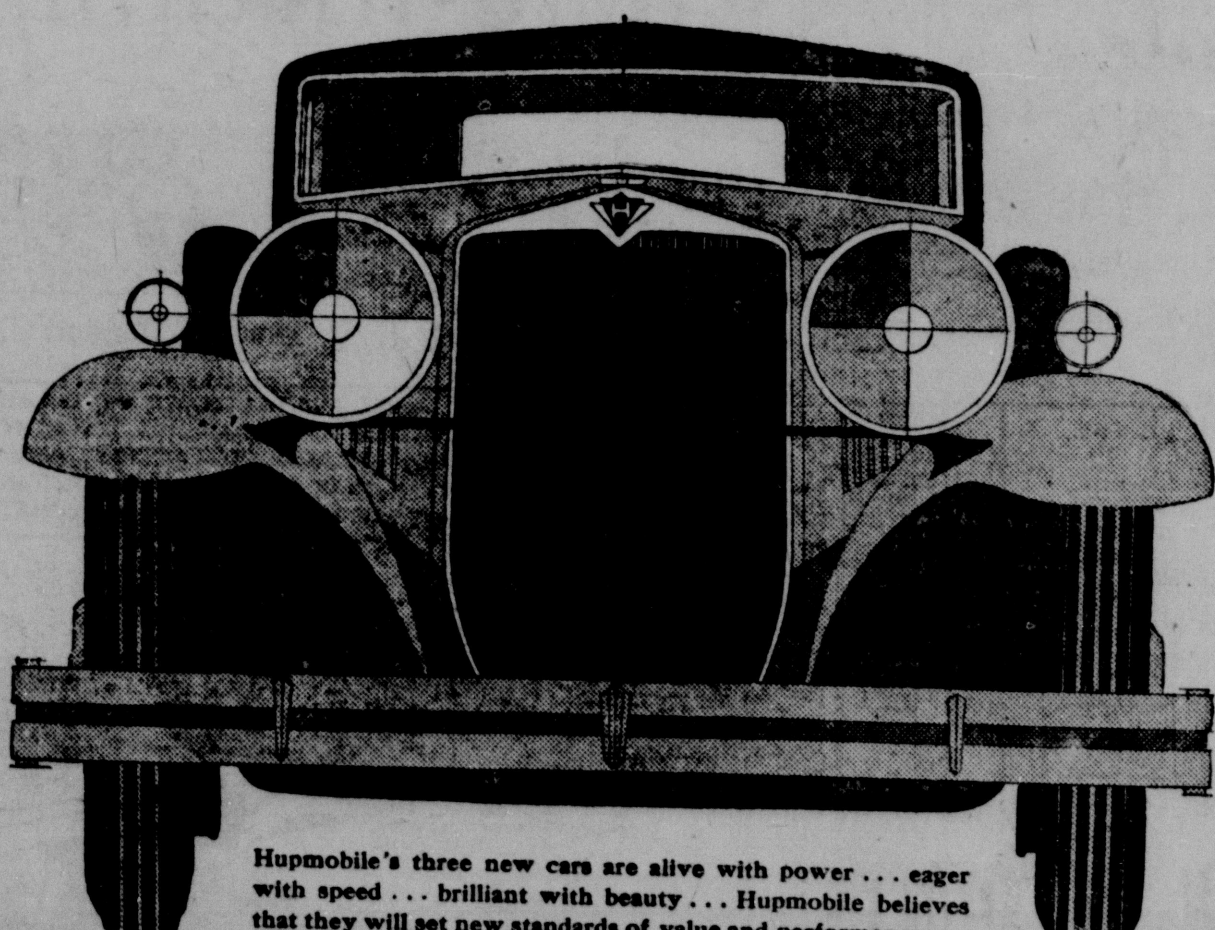

She was talking with another waitress. She spoke of the excitement the thrill seeking that had been crammed into her short years. Then she took poison, ran to her room and bolted the door, when a doctor forced an entrance, she was dead.

MACHINE TESTS PEARLS

LONDON—A machine for testing pearls to reveal fakes is being used here. In testing, the pearl is suspended on a silk thread in a glass tube over an electric magnet in such a position that it is exactly between the two magnetic poles. When a current is passed through the magnet, the fake pearl will revolve, while the real pearl will not.

FIGSINITINCAN

Doesn't amount to much.

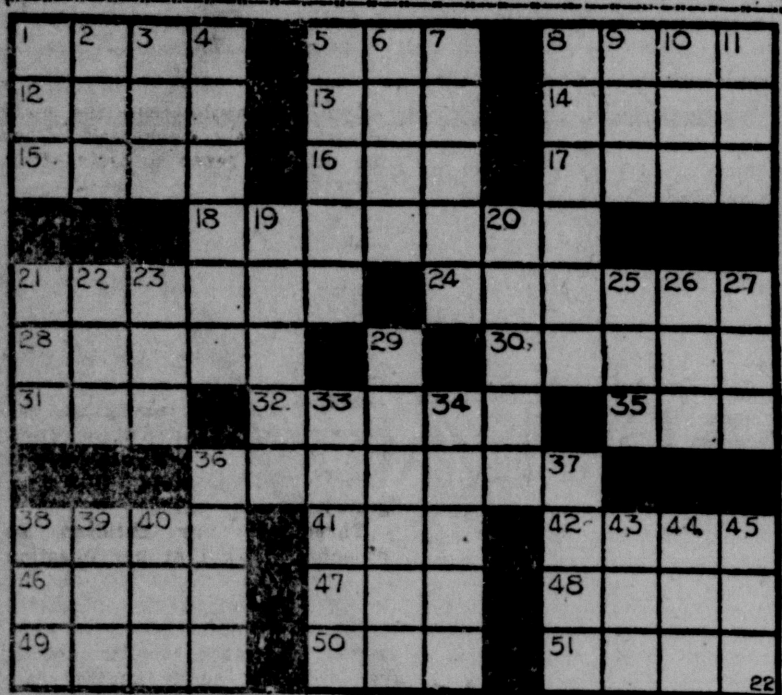

(Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.)

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistakes and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

TUESDAY'S CORRECTIONS

(1) Guaranteed is spelled incorrectly. (2) A portion of the scaffold floor is missing. (3) The man at the left is shy one overall's strap. (4) The hook on the pulley at the left should be curved up, instead of in a position that would let the scaffold rope slip off. (5) The scrambled word is EXISTENCE.

Farewell for General Smuts

Mrs. Andrew Carnegie, who has rarely appeared in the public eye since the death of her husband, the late steel magnate, is shown left, after a meeting in connection with the Students International Union at which General Jan Smuts, Boer hero, made his farewell speech before sailing back to England. At the right is Mrs. Alexander Hadden, vice president of the union.

Most people think of Detroit as the home of Henry Ford, and consider that the automobile industry is its most important commercial and industrial activity.

The truth of the matter is that while Detroit leads the world in automotive activity, the combined total of Mr. Ford's business, the General Motors business, the Packard business and all the other automobile activities that center in Detroit, together with the manufacturers of accessories for automobile service, totals less than 30 percent of the Detroit commercial activity.

Detroit was a great city before the automobile industry was thought of. It has continued to grow by leaps and bounds until it today is the outstanding Michigan corporate entity. Last week when I paid a visit to this thriving metropolis, I had the pleasure of renewing acquaintance with Harold P. Trosper, vice president of the American Life Insurance Company, and one of Detroit's leading insurance men. I did not realize for instance, that Detroit is developing gradually as a prominent insurance center. Mr. Trosper took me into the new home of the Union Trust Company. This new financial cathedral has attracted attention from all over the world. It is the first banking house done in colors and its colors artistically display on the outside of its 42 stories of commercial grandeur. The color scheme in the main banking house is at first startling, but eventually delightful to the eye. On the day I visited Detroit, the community was enthusiastic over the formal opening of the new Ambassador Bridge to Windsor. This $20,000,000 structure is the longest of its type in the world. Its dedication on Armistice Day brought a crowd of 50,000 men, women and children on the United States end of the bridge, and at least 10,000 at the Windsor terminal. The bridge was financed by private capital, and it is of the suspension type with a free span 1,550 feet long. The length over all is one and eight-tenths mile. THE BRIDGE CARRIES AN EIGHT FOOT SIDEWALK AND A FORTY-SEVEN FOOT ROADWAY THAT WILL ACCOMMODATE FIVE LANES OF VEHICLES.

Passenger Airline In Wis.-Illinois

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22—(UP)—A. H. Britten, president of Northwest Airways, Inc., today announced details of a proposed airplane passenger line between Wisconsin and Illinois.

The route will link Chicago, Rockford and Elgin, Ill., with Madison, Janesville and probably Portage, Wis. The line will begin operation about Mar. 1, with one plane flying each way over the route daily. Planes operating on the line will carry airmail, passengers and express. Portage will be made a terminus of the line if plans for the construction of an airplane hangar there are put through, Britten said.

Washington, Jan. 22—Chicago and Rockford, Ill., will be linked by air mail service starting March 1 or a few weeks later, the Postoffice Department announced today. Later the line may be extended to Madison, Wis.

Illinois Man Relates How Famous Medicine Conquered Severe Ailments.

MR. JOHN D. NOWLAN.

"Konjola scored a quick and complete victory in my stubborn case when all else I had tried had failed utterly," said Mr. John D. Nowlan, 521-A Bond avenue, East St. Louis. "My liver and kidneys were in a dreadful condition, causing me no end of suffering. I could not sleep soundly nor enjoy life to any degree. When able to work at all, it was sheer drudgery to drag through the days. I lost faith in medicines, because none of them ever gave me the slightest relief.

"Then I began hearing and reading about this new and different medicine, Konjola. I started the treatment and before I knew what was invigorated and then Konjola strengthened my kidneys so that they functioned normally. Work is no longer drudgery. I can find no words to praise Konjola as it so richly deserves."

Konjola is sold in Dixon, Ill., at FORD HOPKINS DRUG STORE, 123 West First St., and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.—Adv.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the department in which she works. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, and in Paris, and a son, JUNIOR, 16, at school.

A blissful honeymoon in Bermuda is interrupted by a cablegram that Tony is on her way to America. Judith and Arthur sail to meet her. When Knight brings his daughter to their Long Island home, the girl ignores her stepmother. Later she tells Judith she must leave the house. Knight, overbearing, forces Tony to accept him.

The girl spends much of her time with MICKEY MORTIMER, a young man who is a state of armed neutrality exists between Tony and Judith Junior. Judith is uncomfortable until the boy returns to school. A letter comes from ALICE HELEN, who had chaperoned Tony in Europe. Judith is told of the girl's affair with Mortimer. Tony sends her father that her aunt has misjudged her. A young man comes to call and Tony introduces him as ANDY CRAIG.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

ANDY CRAIG looked on one girl to the other in that moment of awkward pause. Perhaps he was startled by Judith's obvious youth.

Tony broke the silence. "Well, Andrew Craig," she said sharply. "Stop mooning at Judith and tell me what's brought you on the horizon! I thought you were in the farthest remote corner of some remote college library learning to be a smart lawyer. Don't tell me you're educated!"

Andy grinned. "Absolutely. Miss Knight. A duly accredited member of the bar is there anything I can do for you this morning? We have an excellent line of divorces, breach of promise suits, annulments—some thing in the way of a tasty attachment of property, perhaps? Let me particularly suggest our luncheon special today—"

"Dumbbell!" accused Tony. "What a way to talk!" the youth chided. "See here, Tony Knight, I mean it. I appeal before you in supplication bent and ask you to come to lunch with me. The Rolls Royce is without—that is, without existence—but we can catch a train in exactly 10 minutes which will whisk us to a goodly caravansary and nourishment. Willst come?"

Tony giggled. "The poor boy!" she sighed in mock sadness. "Burning the mid night oil has completely added his brain. And such a promising lad he was once, too."

She turned to Judith. "Will you ask Harriet to put him out? And write on a piece of paper and pin it to his pocket that Miss Knight is engaged for the rest of the day and cannot possibly be disturbed."

"Aw, Tony—" Craig protested. "Sorry. Couldn't possibly manage it! Do you think you can turn up here five minutes of 12 and expect to take me to lunch? Well, there's the answer! I've a previous engagement, darling!"

AS she was speaking Tony had pointed through the glass of the door out to the driveway. A large vivid green coupe was just halting it was Mickey Mortimer's car.

There came the sound of a French automobile horn.

Tony pulled the door open, waved her hand, then turned and darted up the stairs.

"See you some more!" she called to Andrew Craig as she disappeared.

"See you some more!" she called.

around the curve of the stairway. The joking light died in the young man's blue eyes.

"Won't you—won't you come in, Mr. Craig?" Judith said, motioning toward the living room.

He followed, protesting: "I can't stay—really. Got to get back to the city. Just thought I'd run in and say hello to Tony while I was out here."

Craig was embarrassed and yet he lingered. Judith understood. The young man wanted to wait until the green motor car had pulled away before leaving the house. He didn't wish to confront his successful rival.

Tony's clattering footsteps could be heard on the stairs again.

"Tell you what you do, Andy," she cried gaily. "Stay to lunch with Judith! She'd be glad to have you. Wouldn't you?" the girl added, turning directly to her step mother.

"Why—of course I would! I'd be very glad to have you, Mr. Craig. I've no other company, you see. Tony's leaving—"

"Thanks," said Craig dryly. "It's awfully good of you but I couldn't really. Well, Tony, I see I was wrong about the Rolls. It came after all!"

Tony puckered up her little nose and made an insolent "face" by way of reply. Then she prouetted on her heel and was gone. The front door closed noisily.

Judith felt she should make conversation.

"You've just finished school?" she asked.

Andy Craig nodded. He had been watching the green coupe through the window and saw that now it was driving away.

"Yes," he said. "Finished last week. I'm going to be with Hunter Brothers now. Mr. Knight got me the job. He's been wonderful to me. You see, I've known Mr. Knight ever since I was a kid. He helped me through school. I'd never have been able to make it otherwise."

"Oh," said Judith. "So you're old friends! Well, you must let me see more of you now that you're back in the city."

Andy smiled.

"Sure, I'll do that, all right. One reason I happened to be out here this morning is I've found a place to live a few blocks west. I've always wanted to live out here and last night when I was hunting through the papers I found a want ad. The place isn't remarkable but it'll do and I guess I can pay the rent."

When Andy Craig smiled two rows of flashing white teeth came in view. The young man certainly was not handsome but that boyish smile had won friends for him all his life.

"Well, I've got to be going now, Mrs. Knight," he said. "Thank you for the invitation. And I'm awfully glad to have met you."

Judith gave him her hand, then went with him to the door.

"Remember," she said, "you've promised to come see us again."

"I'll remember, all right. Good afternoon."

THAT evening Arthur Knight told Judith the whole story of Andrew Craig. He was enthusiastic in his praise.

Andy had first come to Knight's attention when the youth at 14 was employed as an office boy at Hunter Brothers. The cheerful grin and head of red hair had caught Arthur Knight's fancy. He learned the boy's mother had been dead for years and the father worked in a shoe factory. He learned, too, that Andy was attending night school.

One evening a horrible accident occurred on the elevated railway. Andy Craig's father was among the fatally injured. Knight took a personal interest in the boy's affairs, saw to it that the home in which the lad found room and board was satisfactory, encouraged him to continue with his schooling.

He did more than that for Andy when he found the boy had a quick brain and an aptitude for work which the youth was given more responsible tasks and better pay. Every few weeks Knight would have a chat with Andy. The boy responded to encouragement.

Finally there had been the choice of a career and the problem of a college education. Andy wanted to become a lawyer. He worked summer vacations and saved his money. Knight loaned him more and the young man set off for college.

He had finished school with honors, Knight said, and was to come back again to Hunter Brothers. His salary was the same as any beginner in the legal department but the man was confident that Andy Craig would forge ahead.

Judith was bright-eyed as she listened to this account.

"And Tony—" she asked. "Do you think she cares for the boy?"

At the turn of a corner she rushed almost headlong into a young man.

"Oh!" cried Judith.

"My fault—why, how do you do, Mrs. Knight!"

Andy Craig had removed his hat and halted before the girl. She stood for a moment looking up at him silently. Before his steady gaze the color left Judith's cheeks. She glanced away hurriedly.

Thanks Judge After Receiving Sentence

East St. Louis, Ill., Jan. 22—(UP)—Ike McCurrie, Metropolis, Ill., restaurant keeper, thanked the judge when he was sentenced to serve six months in jail for a violation of the prohibition law in federal court here yesterday; McCurrie will serve the government sentence upon his release from the southern Illinois penitentiary at Chester where he is serving a term of from one to two years for violating the state prohibition law. The federal violation occurred at a date subsequent to the state violation. McCurrie was also fined $500.

Louis Neal and Edward Wonnack, Rantoul, Ill., were fined $250 each and sentenced to serve four months each in jail for violation of the prohibition law. They were charged with selling whisky to boys of 13.

52 Families Driven Into Cold By Flames

Chicago, Jan. 22—(AP)—Fire drove 52 families into the sub-zero cold early today when it swept through an apartment building at Irving Park Boulevard and Clarendon Avenue.

The damage was estimated at $50,000. No one was injured, and those driven to the street in their night clothes were given shelter in the neighborhood. An overheated furnace was given as the cause of the fire.

TEXAS WONDERS IF FERGUSONS WILL RUN AGAIN

"Farmer Jim" and "Ma"
Have Backers Who Want
Them For Governor

By GORDON K. SHEARER
United Press Staff Correspondent
Austin, Tex.—(UP)—All over the 266,000 square miles of Texas, people are wondering if "Ma" Ferguson is going to enter the governor's mansion, for the third time.

It would be but another turn in the remarkable career of the two Governors Miriam A. and James E. Ferguson, who have alternated between the zenith and the nadir of Fortune's wheel.

In 1914 a rugged, smooth shaven, 200 pound man of 45, risen from day laborer to banker, startled the politicians of Texas by suddenly announcing that he was going to run for Governor.

With a plank in his platform proposing to limit the amount of the crops that landowners could claim from tenant farmers, Ferguson was swept into the Governorship.

After being hostess at the "Mansion" for nearly three years, Mrs. Ferguson left it in October, 1917, with her husband, who had been impeached and sentenced never again to "hold office of honor, trust or profit" in Texas.

Then came the Ku Klux Klan. Ferguson became its virulent attacker. He could not run for office. Mrs. Ferguson said she would. On the twin planks of opposition to the Klan and vindication they again had fortune's favor.

She pardoned her husband. The legislature passed an amnesty act restoring his political rights.

Attorney General Dap Moody began a probe of highway activities. Huge contracts had been let. He demanded their cancellation and return of approximately $1,000,000 to the state, in a series of suits. Winning a $600,000 suit Moody announced for Governor.

"Either I should not be governor or my opponent should not be attorney general," Mrs. Ferguson said in her first campaign speech for reelection. "I make him this challenge. If I do not beat him 100,000 votes in the first primary, I will resign provided, if I beat him in the first primary, he will resign."

Moody promptly accepted. "I wouldn't bet with the Governorship of the state as a stake," he said, "but I see an opportunity in accepting this challenge to rid the state of Fergusonism in July instead of the following January."

Early return indicated Moody had a majority in the first primary. It developed he lacked a few thousand votes and the campaigning was on for another month. Mrs. Ferguson ignored her challenge, saying it has never been formally accepted. In the second primary Moody won and in January, 1927 "Ma" Ferguson left the mansion the second time.

The amnesty act, that had restored Ferguson's rights was repealed. Opponents claim the amnesty never was constitutional and that "Ma" Ferguson could not legally pardon him.

Ferguson's supporters say the pardon was valid. They assert also that once having taken effect, the amnesty act restored his rights regardless of the pardon. Once restored, they say, repeal of the act could not again deprive him of the right to hold office.

Because of this dispute some think "Ma" will again be the candidate, not "Pa."

In either event, a Ferguson victory will take her into the "mansion" for the third time.

Daily Health Talk

DON'T TRIFLE WITH SORE THROAT

By SHIRLEY W. WYNNE, M. D.
Commissioner of Health
New York, New York.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. Headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

The so-called "common sore throat" constitutes one of the worst menaces to health, and neglect of even a slight inflammation in that region may lead to far more serious consequences than the average person imagines. Diphtheria, mastoiditis, meningitis, arthritis and heart disease are among the more serious diseases which may result from a neglected sore throat.

Deafness and other ear troubles, as well as nasal complications, also can be traced to it. So that at least four major diseases, which frequently prove fatal, can result from the apparently simple inflammation to which almost every adult and child is subject.

Aside from dread diphtheria a sore throat very frequently permits the entry into the body of malignant streptococci and pneumococci—germs which penetrate the body and invade the other tissues, unlike the diphtheria bacilli which usually remain on the surface of the mucous membranes. In many respects, therefore streptococci and pneumococci are far more serious than diphtheria bacilli. Very frequently these germs, growing and multiplying in what seems to be a simple sore throat, spread rapidly through the small canal leading to the ear and set up an inflammation of the middle ear, that is the bony cavity behind the ear drum.

In a short time, and accompanied by the most excruciating pain, the ear drum may break, or it may have to be lanced. In many instances the inflammation extends to the surrounding bony tissue and produces what is known as mastoiditis, a very serious condition requiring prompt operation by a specialist. If this operation is not performed in time, or if the germs are particularly virulent the inflammation may break through the bony tissue and reach the base of the brain, giving rise to a meningitis which usually is fatal.

Again, instead of spreading to the germs arising from a sore throat may find their way into the blood stream and be carried to the heart, where they may produce acute inflammation of the heart valves. Or they may be carried to the kidneys where they give rise to abscesses, or they may flow to the joints where they may cause arthritis.

No matter how slight the soreness in the throat may be it is potentially dangerous. While home treatment may now and then allay the inflammation and cure the condition, the very fact that a sore throat invariably is a bleeding ground for germs that can cause so many diseases makes it foolish to take any chances. In fact, every person suffering from sore throat should seek out his family physician at once and obtain the right kind of treatment.

Thanks to toxin-antitoxin diphtheria can be abolished and we are having remarkable success in this work. But diphtheria is the only one of the sore throat diseases we are able to prevent.

TEXAS COLONIZED

On Jan. 22, 1821, Mexico agreed to permit Americans to colonize Texas.

The right to establish a Texas colony was obtained by Moses Austin. He died soon after, but his son, Stephen, took up the work.

Being free to choose the location for his colony Austin selected the lower Brazos and Trinity valleys. Before long many claims covered the region from the Sabine to the Nueces.

Discontent with the Mexican rule was not long in appearing, and a state of warfare existed between the Mexicans and American colonists for several years.

In 1836, the Mexican leader, Santa Anna, was taken captive and was glad to sign a treaty in which he engaged to do what he could for the independence of Texas.

Thus the Republic of Texas was launched and a Constitution ratified in September of the same year, with Sam Houston as president.

Texas was admitted to the Union in 1846.
